

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1871.

VIRGINIA.—Two of the "old guns," loaded with state taunts which used to be fired off constantly at Virginia, by the leaders of the dominant party at the North, have been effectually spiked. We hear no more about want of attention to education, and indifference to internal improvements. We question whether there is another State, where the people are more interested in both these subjects, than in Virginia. Nothing is left undone, which they are able to do, to foster and encourage learning and to build railroads. Our colleges, academies, and private and public schools, we believe, are equal to, if they do not surpass, those established any where else; and the most strenuous exertions are made to improve the material interests of the commonwealth. Had we sufficient capital and a larger population, Virginia would again take her place, at once, in the front rank of the prosperous and improving States of the Union. And we are sure that these requisites will soon come. Nor is there any lack of enterprise shown in the efforts to improve agriculture, and foster manufactures. Industry and thrift are displayed all over the State; and it is really wonderful to see,—notwithstanding all that has been suffered—all the devastation and ruin which we have experienced, so much of restoration accomplished already, and so much zeal and energy displayed, in making up for losses. Let the good old State have the credit to which she is entitled, and which is justly due to the noble spirit evinced by her citizens. And when we speak of her citizens, we include not only those "native and to the manner born," but the many, good industrious men of other States, who have settled among us, joined their interests to ours, and made homes here for themselves and their descendants.

Col. Bondinot, of the Cherokee Nation, proposes that "Congress should pass an act to secure to the Indians of the Territory, first, 160 acres of selected land for every man, woman and child; second, that the remainder of the land be sold to actual settlers; third, that the $1,000,000 Cherokee fund be devoted to the education and support of orphans, &c.; fourth, that the interest on the balance be divided per capita every year; fifth, that U. S. courts be established in the Indian country, with juries of Indians to try Indians; sixth, an Indian delegate in Congress to take the place of expensive delegations, thereby saving the nation $15,000 a year.

We published some days ago an account of a lady who was caught by the hair of her head, in the machinery of a watch factory at Elgin, Illinois, and entirely scalped. It is now stated that she is fast recovering from the shocking accident, and that the physician in attendance says, "he can warrant the entire head to be covered with a new skin; he intends to take skin from her arm and place it upon her forehead and temples, so that it will be smooth and natural. Then, with a head of false hair, she will, in a few months, again walk the streets, so apparently her former self that it will take a close observer to detect the marks of the disaster."

The indignation felt in New York at the reported frauds in the financial affairs of that city, has reached what may be called a "white heat"; for we observe that at the recent meeting held there, Judge Pierpont exclaimed, amidst great excitement and applause, "if peaceful ways will not do to crush these wrongs, I need not tell you the other way. You will hear it in the yells of an infuriated mob, the noise of the musketry, and the thunder of cannon." This is not exactly the way to redress wrongs of the kind complained of—or the proper terms to be used in bringing about a reform.

Treasurer Spinner is expected to return to his post at Washington, from his recent visit to Europe, in a few days. Having experienced when abroad the annoyance of being compelled to wait in an ante room of a banking house in London, for an "interview," the first thing he ought to do, when home, should be to see the understrappers in the departments, and advise them not to subject respectable citizens to the indignity which he complained of. In other words, to treat people, who have business with them, courteously—which, it is said, is frequently not the case now.

Dr. Lethely, at a recent meeting of the medical officers of health of Great Britain, took occasion to renew his statement, already referred to in our columns, of the superiority in a sanitary point of view of a hard-water supply to towns over that of soft water. These statements, however, were met with much vigor by several speakers, among the most eminent of whom was Mr. Wauklyn, who endeavored to show that the deductions of Dr. Lethely were based upon incorrect premises, and that the case was very far from being proved.

There is annually consumed in and around Philadelphia 135,000 head of cattle, or an average of 26,000 per week. This supply, as shown on the books of the West Philadelphia drove-yard, is drawn from three sources, "Lancaster county," "Virginia," and the "West," the last rather general designation including every portion of the country lying west of the Alleghenies, with the exception of Virginia.

The New York Times denies that there is any intention on the part of the President to declare martial law in South Carolina. "He will only exercise this power when all other means of affording protection to the people fail." We are glad to hear this.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

"To show the very age and body of the Time."

At Bloomfield, Missouri, on Sunday last, a man was sought by a band of armed and masked men. He took refuge in the house of his son-in-law, previously calling for the assistance of some friends. When the band approached the house they were fired upon, and three men were killed, and another man was wounded. Hanna is said to be a desperado who has figured in some half dozen shooting affairs. He openly runs an illicit distillery, and boldly keeps off the Marshal or his deputies by threatening to shoot any officer who attempts to interfere with his property.

Gov. Leslie was inaugurated at Frankfort, Ky., yesterday. The venerable judge Robertson, Chief Justice of Kentucky, aged eighty years, weak and helpless, was conveyed to the stand, and administered the oath of office. He had to be supported by two gentlemen while doing so. At the close of the ceremony he declared Governor Leslie the duly installed Governor of Kentucky, and then, unexpectedly to all, announced in his weak and trembling voice his resignation of the office so long and so honorably filled by him. The scene was very affecting.

A terrific storm of wind and rain swept over the town of Windom, in Minnesota, on Monday during which a number of buildings were prostrated. Philip Jacobs was blown from a train of cars and received fatal injuries. A storm passed over Fremont yesterday destroying the engine house of the Sioux City and Pacific Railway, a wind-mill and a telegraph line for half a mile. It also blew a car from a side track. The hail was severe, breaking the windows generally. Several buildings were injured by the storm.

The Fall trade in New York is reported to have opened with unusual briskness in mercantile circles. The jobbing and commission houses Monday morning were thronged, and some of the leading firms were said to have large orders from Western and Southwestern buyers, which will keep their packers busy till far into the night. The prospect is favorable for busy times all around for at least six weeks ahead. The hotels are quite crowded with country merchants from all parts of the Union.

For some thirty or forty years past, says the New Orleans Picayune, the batture in front of the Bazaar market and Red stores, has been gradually sinking, until to-day, just below the Red stores, it is seven feet below the ordinary level, and the settlement varies from three to seven feet. The length of the batture which has thus sunk is about seven hundred and fifty feet, and the width one hundred and twenty, and there is no telling when it will stop.

Some beautiful candles, made according to a new process and from a novel material—ozokerit—are noticed in the foreign journals. This substance is a wax-like mineral, translucent, fusible like beeswax, and slightly bituminous to the smell. It is found at the foot of the Carpathians, near Slankit.

Sandusky, Ohio, or rather one of the excellent mothers of that town, is the happy possessor of a baby that weighed only one pound when it was born, and only two now, in the fourth week of its existence. When it was born a lady's finger-ring was drawn over its arm up to the shoulder.

One hundred bales of cotton which were shipped back to this country after arriving in Liverpool, have been reshipped to Liverpool in the same vessel, the Antarctic, that brought the cotton here—the prices on the other side having made the movement apparently desirable.

Charles J. Petit, a Washington correspondent, attempted suicide in Philadelphia, yesterday, by a pistol shot in the breast. He said he was without money or friends and passed yesterday without eating a morsel. He was removed to the hospital in a dying condition.

Mary Russell, aged 22, died Sunday from abortion produced by Mrs. Ann Eliza Burns, residing in New York. The latter was secured last night at Centropore, Long Island, where she had fled to avoid arrest.

Persons engaged in orange culture in Florida are threatened with great losses this season. More than one half of the crop is on the ground, and much damage has been done to the groves.

Dr. John Swope, one of the oldest and most eminent physicians of Maryland, died at his residence in Taneytown, Carroll county, on Sunday last.

Ten convicts escaped from the penitentiary at Little Rock, Arkansas, yesterday, by overpowering the guard.

No new cases of yellow fever were reported in Charleston yesterday.

WOMAN'S FIDELITY.—The New Orleans Picayune furnishes this beautiful but sad illustration of woman's fidelity:

"Shortly after the close of the war Mrs. Beach living near Carrollton, went insane. The cause of her derangement was attributed to the loss of her husband in one of the numerous conflicts in Virginia. Notwithstanding the unsound condition of her mind, she went about her daily duties as usual, taking care of her children (she had two, a boy and a girl) and sewing for their support. It was only in conversation that her infirmity was apparent, and her utter aversion for society. Naturally weak and delicate in her organization, her over-taxed strength gave way under the arduous work she performed, and day by day her thin pale face grew care-worn, and her soft and silent footsteps drew nearer to the grave. But to all inquiries of friends about her health she would shake her head and say, 'I'm well. I can't die; who would care for my little ones?' The sad and lonely life of the woman excited compassion, but she would take no alms. She toiled early and late. But not a great while since she sent for a gentleman living a short distance from her, and when he arrived said to him, 'I'm going to die now; my children are provided for.' In less than two days she was dead, and contemporaneous with the fact came the intelligence that by the death of an uncle her children had become heirs to a large fortune in Maryland."

THE MINERAL SPRINGS OF VIRGINIA.—Virginia contains far more mineral springs than any State in the Republic. They bubble up among the grand old mountains in every direction, bringing from the bosom of the earth health for the invalid, strength and vigor for the weak and weary, and recreation to the worn-out and overworked.

Already they are a source of considerable revenue to the State, and it is impossible to conceive, now, what that revenue will be when they are made easily accessible to the outside world by the railroads contemplated and in progress.—London Enterprise.

UNLUCKY MEN.—It has been stated that the Rothschilds never employ "unlucky men." The Cincinnati Commercial says that Stewart, the millionaire of New York, adopts no such rule, but has employed a great many broken merchants, deriving great advantage from their experience. If there is wisdom in either policy as such, there is more in Mr. Stewart's side than on that of the Rothschilds.

The true rule is to employ capable and honest men, no matter whether they have been unfortunate or not. Misfortune is not of itself a proof of want of capacity. No man can control events, nor can any man foresee them.—Rich. D.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

The total population of Richmond, Va., according to the late census returns, is 51,038. Total number of white males, 13,428; white females, 14,500; colored males, 10,209; colored females, 12,901; excess of white male population, 1,072; excess of colored females, 1,682; total excess female population, 2,754; number in the city who cannot read, 14,629; cannot write, 16,500.

A few days ago an attempt was made by a negro man to outrage a young lady, near City Point. Her vigorous resistance defeated the horrid purpose of the wretch. He made his escape for the time, but fearing that he would be caught and killed, he has come in, and given himself up, and been committed to jail.

The Lexington Gazette says: "The prospects of our University and V. M. Institute for the next session are said to be more flattering than usual. We hear of more enquiries for places to board and lodge than we have known for several seasons."

The Virginia Star says that Mr. Briggs, of Fredericksburg, who was recently bitten by a mad dog, "visited the mad stone, in Fauquier county, but it failed to take hold of the wound, the reason for which is alleged that application of caustic acts as a preventive."

W. H. Alden, a native of Sweden, but who has been in this country about three years—a thoroughly refined and cultivated gentleman, died in Petersburg yesterday.

The bonded debt of Richmond, on July 1st, 1870, was $2,110,980.94, and on July 1st, 1871, $2,884,678.05, showing an increase of $773,697.11, occasioned by various demands.

Mr. Samuel G. Norvell, formerly a prominent merchant and highly esteemed citizen of Lynchburg, died recently in Cincinnati.

An affray recently occurred at Lebanon, Russell county, which ended in the circus tent being pulled down, and one man killed.

Prof. Maillefert is blowing up the wrecks and other obstructions to navigation in the James River, a short distance below Richmond, at public sale.

There were thirty-seven deaths reported in Richmond last week.

There are more than 1,500 Knights of Pythias in Richmond, and more than 3,000 in Virginia.

THE LONDON CATTLE SALES ASSOCIATION.—The first sale of the Cattle Sales Association came off on Tuesday the 29th ult., at Hamilton, and as the experimental auction of the Association was a most decided success. At least two thousand dollars worth of stock—sheep, hogs, horses and cattle—changed hands at public sale, and by private negotiation. A large crowd was in attendance, and the crowd was composed of that class of farmers whose countenance and encouragement inevitably stamp the seal of success upon any undertaking or enterprise, and we confidently look now for the most beneficial results from these monthly sales.

A great deal of stock brought for sale was not disposed of. This is not to be wondered at when we consider the great scarcity of money in London at this time and the very short crop of corn which has been realized this season, and in fact of all provender and forage for stock feeding. The prices of stock for the next six months must be low in London.

Among the improved stock offered was a very fine young Alderney bull, entered by Mr. Walker, from Waterford, which was disposed of for the small sum of $25.

When London gets to be more of a dairy country, and the dairy qualities of the Alderneys are better understood, they will become great favorites and will be sought after here. The same gentleman offered three splendid jakes of oxen, one of which he sold to Mr. Clinton Lloyd. We were glad to see Mr. Lloyd, present at this sale. He is a gentleman of intelligence, enterprise and liberality, and one who thoroughly appreciates the great advantages of London county, and the means of developing them.—London Enterprise.

WONDERFUL ESCAPE.—One of the most remarkable escapes ever known occurred at Lookout Mountain on Monday evening last. We got the facts from the Chattanooga Times. Messrs. Crawford & Carroll, of Chattanooga, run a line of hacks from the city to Lookout Mountain. After arriving at the hotel on the mountain on the evening above mentioned, the horses were turned loose, with the harness on to graze. A short time after, the driver, going out to bring in the horses to stable them for the night, and finding it difficult to catch one of them, a very fine mare, pressed her upon the very brink of the precipice, near by, in order to herd her, when the mare, still attempting to escape, made a sudden turn and was precipitated over a precipice at least a hundred and fifty feet.

After falling about fifty feet, she struck on a solid rock, and bouncing off fell near a hundred feet, lodging in the top of a small pine, and the harness catching in the limbs, it bent over and eased her to the ground. A gentleman who saw her yesterday evening says she received one severe cut on her side. She was standing on her feet and appeared to be doing well, though she would soon die for want of attention, having received none since the fall and the flies had already begun to wound. If it were possible, this animal should have been saved just for the novelty of the thing, if for nothing else.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN R. R. BANKS.—This courteous, upright and gallant gentleman, died yesterday morning, in Petersburg, after a protracted confinement occasioned by wounds received at the battle of Chancellorsville on the 3d of May, 1863, on which memorable occasion he held the Captaincy of company E, 12th Virginia Regiment, formerly known as the Petersburg Riflemen.

He was a native of Dinwiddie county and at the outbreak of the war, was a partner in the house of Smith, Stone & Banks, one of the leading business firms in this city. Distinguished for all the virtues which adorn the citizen, he was no less conspicuous for his noble qualities as a soldier; and if the integrity, amiability and generosity of his nature won the cordial affection of his associates, his unswerving devotion to duty and the faultless courage which marked his bearing on the field of battle, commanded the respect and admiration of all who witnessed it.—Petersburg Progress.

"We are pleased to be able to report a lively demand for all descriptions of new dried fruit, with better prices for some. Apples are freely taken on arrival, at higher figures. Old continue quiet, but holders do not seem uneasy. The very slim receipts of blackberries have enabled holders to advance prices, and with full quotations the market closes strong at all quotations. THE NEW MARKET HOUSE.—A subscriber presumes that the City Council at its next meeting will take into consideration the subject of the anticipated market house. As far as the people are concerned, they are very watchful of the shifting schemes of the advocates of the various plans and are anxious to have a plain substantial building erected, without great cost or display, one in keeping with the condition of the Corporation finances, and the needs of the people.

They think the extravagant sum of two hundred and fifty dollars never should have been offered for a picture of a Market House, and the City Council should have rejected the plans of Messrs. Chubb and Lambdin, as entirely too extravagant both in design and price, considering the depressed state of our finances. Many of our far seeing citizens agree in saying that we need neither a Court House, nor City Hall, at the market house, and give as a reason that cogitating lawyers ought to be placed far away from a place, where the bleating of calves in the butchers' stalls and the cackling of geese in hucksters' baskets will inevitably interrupt their legal arguments, and where the odor of decaying fish and vegetables will be likely to offend that placidity of the senses so requisite to calm and quiet meditation. Nor is this all. They are serious in the conviction that there are bas enough already in the neighborhood of the market square, yet if an additional one is needed, let the lawyers, who deem another essential to their comfort, build it, and from their own pockets furnish the means requisite therefor. It is now too late in the season to think of commencing the market building, for frost will soon be upon us, and the work done in frosty weather does not stand the test of time. From the beginning, the whole affair seems to have been rather improperly conducted and every additional movement seems to plunge those engaged in it deeper into a labyrinth of whys and wherefores. Let them turn the matter over to those most interested, viz: the people, who will select men practical and reliable, to build a market house, which will not only serve all the required purposes, but will be an ornament to the city. Surely the people are the best judges of what is needed, and if their conclusion is "that what will serve is fit," let the work be commenced at once, and not wait until half or more of the insurance money is spent in obtaining plans and proposals. The people are getting tired of this, and all must admit that with those who have been waiting "patience has had time to do her perfect work."

RARE CHANCE FOR CAPITAL.
Unable to farm from ill-health, and anxious to pay my debts, I offer for sale the following valuable REAL ESTATE.

THE LOWER GRANVILLE FARM, containing 3743 acres, situated 4 miles west of Washington, on the Potomac turnpike, and adjoining "Oakwood," the estate of the late Robert E. Scott. This land, gently undulating with fine Southern exposure, and lying in the basin of the Great Run Valley, is valuable both for grazing and farming purposes. It is finely watered with an abundance of timber, and has upon it a new FRAME DWELLING, with 10 rooms, which can be added to with convenience; a large new frame stable, two corn cribs, and is under good fencing. Should the purchaser desire, he can buy Capt. A. D. Payne's farm, adjoining of some 350 acres, when he will have a fine estate of 4293 acres, in that beautiful and fertile valley, with orchard, buildings, and every convenience and comfort. The McCoy tract, a neat little farm of 84 acres, adjoining also, may be bought. I will also sell, adjoining, a place of residence, 2 miles from Markham station, on the M. & G. R. R., containing 202 acres, situated at the eastern base of the Blue Ridge, within half a mile of the "Falls of Albano," in the blue grass region of Upper Fauquier; well timbered, watered, and well fenced; protected from the rude winds of winter and fanned by the most refreshing breezes of summer; I doubt whether a more romantic spot, comfortable home, or desirable piece of property can be found. The dwelling is comfortable, with all the necessary outbuildings. The soil is of good quality, and generates in the production of all the cereals, rich in minerals and interspersed with springs of various medicinal properties. This place is also the location of extensive marble quarries, among which I may mention beautiful Breccia of all colors, Verd Antique and Scapolite, Marbles, Opalites of different colors, Chalcedony, Jaspers, Chromite, Iron, Soap Stone, Sulphate and Oxides Iron, beautiful Ochres, very clear of red, and valuable for paints; Meerschaum, red and white Porphyries, and a rock, which, when ground, is a superior fertilizer.

Terms: I want for this property $7,000 in cash to pay my debts; the deferred payments can be made to suit purchaser. "Linwood" to be sold subject to a royalty of 10 per cent. Address the subscriber, Markham Station, Fauquier co., Va. Fauquier county, 17th 11-lawm
